Generations: After 1200 years man’s noise angers Enlil, and he has a lesser god produce a plague. Enki gives Atrahasis advice; the plague stops. 1200 years pass; man’s noise angers Enlil, and he has a lesser god produce a disease. Enki helps Atrahasis again. 1200 years pass, man’s noise anger’s Enlil again, and he makes Enki produce a flood. Enki advises Atrahasis to build a boat, and fill it with his family and every type of animal.

Generations: ...the flood subsides, and Atrahasis offers a sacrifice. Ninhursag swears she will never forget the flood. Enki persuades Enlil to punish man by making one-third of all births unsuccessful.

Eridu Genesis

Creation: The heavens and earth are created out of the chaos and the sea. God uses pillars to raise the fruitful place (earth) up between the liquid waters and the waters in the atmosphere. The gods create man to farm their land, herd their animals, and worship them.

Generations: Cities and kingships are created: Eridu, Bad-Tibera, Larak, Sippar, and Shuruppak. [Lost account of the Antediluvian rulers; Enlil’s anger at man’s noise, and his decision to destroy man through flood] Nintur and Inanna grieve. A god warns Ziusudra about the flood. [Lost account of Enki’s advice to build a boat and fill it with pairs of living things; Ziusudra’s compliance].

Flood/Ark: “All the evil winds, all stormy winds gathered into one and with them, then, the flood was sweeping over the cities... for seven days and seven nights.”

Generations: The sun comes out. Ziusudra sacrifices before the sun, then before An and Enlil. They make him ruler over small animals and the seed of mankind and grant him life, like a god’s.
